BLOOD OF THE PROVINCES: THE ROMAN AUXILA AND THE MAKING OF PROVINCIAL SOCIETY FROM AUGUSTUS TO THE SEVERANS BY IAN HAYNES PDF

Blood of the Provinces is the first fully comprehensive study of the largest part of the Roman army, the auxilia. This non-citizen force constituted more than half of Rome's celebrated armies and was often the military presence in some of its territories. Diverse in origins, character, and culture, they played an essential role in building the empire, sustaining the unequal peace celebrated as the pax Romana, and enacting the emperor's writ.

Drawing upon the latest historical and archaeological research to examine recruitment, belief, daily routine, language, tactics, and dress, this volume offers an examination of the Empire and its soldiers in a radical new way. Blood of the Provinces demonstrates how the Roman state addressed a crucial and enduring challenge both on and off the battlefield--retaining control of the miscellaneous auxiliaries upon whom its very existence depended. Crucially, this was not simply achieved by pay and punishment, but also by a very particular set of cultural attributes that characterized provincial society under the Roman Empire. Focusing on the soldiers themselves, and encompassing the disparate military communities of which they were a part, it offers a vital source of information on how individuals and communities were incorporated into provincial society under the Empire, and how the character of that society evolved as a result.

At long last a true story of who really fought the Roman wars and conquest that lead to its long future strength and dest

By james

I think it is important realize that the majority of the Roman conquest from the late Republic and throughout the whole Pricepate and future Empire . Was almost wholly achieved by an army and legions of recruits . Who were not from from land area we now call Italy.

The late Repuplic began its usage of recruiting a specialized force to supplement its area of weakness such as heavy Calvary and the expertise area of archery and slingshot. With the coming of Pompey and Caesar and their personal agenda of conquest and their need for an army outside the jurisdiction of the Senate . Started the first large recruitment of non Roman citizen armies.

The massacures of the Civil Wars and a population tired of wars was only too willing to allow Augusta to do the Roman people a favor by never recruiting again from the civil population of Italy again . The future legions of Rome would be supplied by the Provencies . Those non citizens (with future promise of Roman citizenship) would forever do the dying for Roman conquest!!!!!!

This book finally tells this story . At long last an almost full story and gives credit to the past limited reseachers!!
