Beyond your conscious imagination!

By DR. NORMA LENT AUERBACH

Convoluting Universe V contains snippets from Dolores Cannon's deep hypnosis past-life regression sessions using her Quantum Healing Hypnosis Technique that sends your mind into universes never dreamed of and outside the parameters of conscious reality. The word "Wow" will come to your mind as you turn each page and contemplate each chapter. Who would have expected that the sun, other galaxies, the oceans, could have supported our "souls" to continue their journey in different shapes, figures, energies, etc. These cases also don't fit our normal perception of what reincarnation and past lives and linear reality are all about as we are also presented with concepts such as parallel lives and alternative realities, etc. Whatever it is, prepare your mind to be stretched into possibilities and scenarios never before considered or imagined...and ponder many thoughts that make you consider that what you're going through now that seems difficult is really all part of a grand scenario of many lifetimes, none more important than any other, in your soul's journey. Perhaps the journey you experience reading this book can provide the ability to reflect and release the fears and traumas you carry around in your current conscious journey and give yourself permission to heal. As the author penned (p. 309), "They" have always told me to tell the client that 90% of what happens here today is up to YOU" unless your condition is part of your karmic agreement and lessons to be learned. Whatever you experience in reading/rereading this book, may it assist you to move forward in your current conscious reality in a "happy and healthy way."

Fascinating

By Robin Landry

Another mind-bindingly good book from Delores Cannon, who sadly, left us last year. On a positive note, she did leave enough work for a few more books and this is one of them. The Convoluting Series is sort of a rag-tag collection of regressions that don't fit into a 'themed' book like Nostradamus, or the Jesus book, so Delores put them all together in their own series. Here is number 5 and it takes your mind on a journey that is truly original, exciting and just plain weird at times. Here's a little bit of what's in the fifth book of the series, and honestly, some movie producer should check these books out for ideas that are out of this world.

We have 'back drop' people(I've heard these beings called Organic Portals in another book), which are people that you interact with throughout your life who are there as 'extras' in your personal stage play of life. "D: So the others don't really have purposes? S: Right. They come to live, breathe, work and die. D: Is there any hope that they might find a path, or are they a different kind of soul? S: They didn't choose. They're just here to be part of the backdrop. They're slaves. They're slaves that go from one star system to the next and they are used as backdrop. . . .S: Not all beings are the light source. They're just here as energy to help us with our lessons, to create chaos or to work or just to live. Certain beings go to learn the lessons from the light Source. It's like you're a higher being." page 257-8 I have to admit, it does seem like some people are just going through life with no purpose and are perfectly content to do so. The client also said that certain animals are from the light source and I'd agree that my horse is.

Here are some of the section headers "Finishing Karma, New Perceptions of Energy, Other World Lives, We The Creators" to explore. There's a chapter called The MotherBoard which talks about fixing the energy pathways of humans and how our motherboard is our heart. Our Hearts are connected to Source(God/Goddess) through quantum realities which means that the heart is outside of time. I like this idea because it means that we can love someone whether they are here in our reality of time and space, or if they've passed on. Our love knows no time and feels the same about our loved ones no matter what. And if we go into our hearts, we can't know pain(which is remembering the good times).

Delores Cannon's books are feel-good on a quantum level for me. Her hope for a brighter future for humanity shines through her words and her volume of books. She was truly doing God's work while she was on Earth.

Multifaceted Consciousness

By Bani Sodermark

Reading this book by Dolores Cannon made me realize how appropriately the title "Convolutioned Universe" fits in with its contents. It would be hard to find more "convolutioned" life experiences than those that are featured in this book. Words seem totally inadequate when confronted by the gestalts reported in this book

If one is to find a common theme in this book, it is the uncovering of the life purpose of the individual through a meaningful contact with his/her Higher Self. Culling this information has been an ongoing theme in the earlier books in the series called "The Convolutioned Universe" but in this book, the need to do so is more imperative than ever before. The information is very specific and would be hard, if not impossible to glean from the individual's present life experience alone. The reason is that conventional ecumenical values do not hold when confronting the effects of all the previous lifetimes. This is why Dolores Cannon's experiences with her clients are so unpredictable, because most of us readers define ourselves through well-intentioned societal values, and even the most diehard of atheists cannot conceive the vista of the exigencies of consciousness, where development is concerned. Dolores Cannon's books are so popular for this very reason, she presents her findings from the source as she finds it without questioning their validity through filters conjured up by the mind. So her clients under hypnosis could experience lifetimes as diverse as a column of stone, a part of an amorphous cloud, a salamander, a mermaid (yes, it seems as if they exist on this planet), a seeker seeking to experience being pure energy, a gladiator- turned - writer in a later lifetime, among others, some with vastly superior technologies than we possess today. After hypnosis, many of the clients experienced a total healing of their physical bodies , as essential information pertaining to the purpose of the present incarnation had been disclosed and the energies of the present lifetime could be channeled to a fast track evolution as many backdrop issues are cleared away.

All this is exemplified in Dolores' quote that is highlighted in this book "We have all the answers. We just need to allow ourselves the right questions."

Another aspect to this book that is common to many of the experiences recorded in it, is that of the many changes that are coming to our planet and how many souls from other worlds and galaxies are answering a call from above (wherever that is) to help. It is clear from the many sessions recorded in this book that the Earth is changing and the frequency of human beings is being amplified considerably. Many of the souls that have volunteered to come here today are facing painful health issues and/or depression for their bodies/minds are not designed to deal with these unfamiliar energies, not least because all memories of the past have been erased at birth and one has to start anew. This is where the Higher Self of the individual comes in during the session, to clear up dormant issues and attune the individual's body to a more appropriately tuned degree of consciousness, commensurate with the changed scenario on our planet.

Apart from the features mentioned above, it is fascinating to read about how we as a species interact with others not of our kind and the kind of adjustments required to sustain a dialogue with the latter. The role of karma and how it is possible to sidestep its negative aspects is taken up in some detail. We also learn that the sun is a massive star gate and not as hot as we believe it to be. We learn of souls with physical bodies letting other souls come into them in order to help ground more energy while they wait in the wings and observe. There is a detailed mention of the backdrop people, of the concomitant changes in the Universe, prompted by the changes leading to the New Earth. There is a chapter on how everybody has a motherboard which is the default overlay of tiny electric currents involving the DNA that keeps the person going and define what s/he is supposed to do in this lifetime. There is also a mention of Creator light beings that can create planets using holographic symbols. The ultimate goal for all is to realize that we can do everything we think about and succeed, thus reclaiming our innate divine power.

This is a book to be read and reread to absorb its amazing import, one sitting is not enough.

Warmly recommended.
